Year-Round Gardening with Native Plants to Support Pollinators and Wildlife

Donnie Bryan

Donnie will talk about his own terraced backyard garden covered in native plants that was featured in a Fall 2022 episode of Volunteer Gardener.

Donnie Bryan was a high school arts teacher in Alabama for 27 years. He moved to Nashville 16 years ago to chair the Visual and Performing Arts Department at Ensworth High School. Upon retiring five years ago, he went wholeheartedly into gardening with native plants. He built a large, terraced hillside garden with water features, bird and animal habitats, and pollinator favorites. He has a rain garden, a small pocket prairie, and a woodland garden. He is a member of Wild Ones - Middle Tennessee and Tennessee Native Plant Society. He does native plant rescues, and grows hundreds of plants for our spring and fall native plant sales. He put together a growing room to assist with growing from seed.

Zoom Meeting opens at 6:30

Everyone is welcome!
